

Rocks Soil Water Atmosphere

FREE PUBLIC EVENT

Saturday, October 26, 2019

10:00 AM – 3:00 PM

Acton Nature Center

6900 Smoky Hill Ct., Granbury, TX 76049

PRELIMINARY LINEUP

INTERACTIVE EXHIBITS and FEATURED GUESTS

Every rock tells a story Ancient life of North Texas

Why Earth science? Rocks that glow in the dark

What's in a rock? (Why all life needs rocks)

Dinosaur Valley State Park Dallas Paleontological Society

Upper Trinity Groundwater Conservation District Aquifer Model

Agrilife Extension Stream Trailer

ACTIVITIES FOR CHILDREN

Fossil discovery and recovery Edible sedimentary rocks

Creating art with rocks

GEO-HIKES

EARTH-INSPIRED ART

Check www.actonnaturecenter.com for information, directions, and possible changes due to weather.

Questions: discoverearthscience@gmail.com

IN RECOGNITION OF

Earth Science Week is organized yearly by the American Geosciences Institute and recognized nationally and internationally to help the public gain a better understanding of and appreciation for the Earth sciences and to encourage stewardship of the Earth.

2019 Theme: GEOSCIENCE IS FOR EVERYONE

This event is sponsored by

*Texas Master Naturalist,

Rio Brazos Chapter*

Acton Nature Center

Hood County Development District #1

